

Bibiana is Co-founder and Executive Director of the Quebec Interuniversity Equity, Diversity and Inclusion Network (RIQEDI), a non-profit organization that brings together Quebec universities and several university stakeholders who have the mandate or desire to promote and integrate the values of equity, diversity and inclusion within their institutions. She is a researcher and manager with more than ten years of experience in the field of human resources management. Her areas of expertise are related to the analysis of innovative, creative and academic industries, equity, diversity and inclusion management, conflict management, workplace well-being and knowledge management within companies and clusters. She is also a consultant for her company (CIDI) and has worked on various projects in the video game industry, the artificial intelligence ecosystem and academia. She is a doctoral candidate in industrial relations (specializing in human resources) and recognized for her dedication to teaching, student supervision, university research and community engagement.

Linkedin profile: <https://www.linkedin.com/in/bibianapulido/>